Programme overview

This five-day exchange programme brought together young people and youth workers from three partner countries — France, Spain, and Poland — to explore intercultural dialogue, social inclusion, and collaborative project design. Through a structured progression of non-formal education activities, participants moved from initial discovery and trust-building to hands-on co-creation of community-based inclusion projects.

The programme combined facilitated workshops, external stakeholder input, creative expression, and daily reflection to ensure deep and meaningful learning. Each day built upon the previous one, allowing participants to progressively develop intercultural competences, communication skills, and a sense of European citizenship.

Expected and achieved results

For participants

- Intercultural competences: participants developed a deeper understanding of cultural diversity and learned to navigate cultural differences with openness and respect. Through mixed-country teamwork, they practised active listening, empathy, and perspective-taking in real intercultural situations.
- Communication and conflict resolution skills: the dedicated workshops equipped participants with practical tools for non-violent communication and constructive conflict resolution, skills directly transferable to their personal and professional lives.

- Active citizenship and civic engagement: by co-creating community inclusion projects, participants gained hands-on experience in identifying social challenges and designing concrete responses. Several project ideas were identified for potential implementation in participants' home communities after the exchange.
- Self-confidence and personal growth: participants reported increased self-confidence in expressing themselves in international settings, working in multilingual environments, and taking initiative in group activities.
- European identity and networking: the exchange strengthened participants' sense of belonging to a wider European community and created lasting connections between young people from different countries.
- Youthpass certification: all participants received a Youthpass certificate recognising the key competences developed during the exchange, including multilingual competence, personal and social competence, and citizenship competence.

For participating organisations

- Strengthened partnership: the exchange deepened the collaboration between the three partner organisations (MUSIC'AL from France, Asociacion Cultural Somos Europa from Spain, and UGPA POLSKA from Poland), building mutual trust and a shared methodology for future cooperation.
- Capacity building in non-formal education: facilitators and youth workers from each organisation gained practical experience in designing and delivering intercultural education programmes, enriching their professional toolkit.
- Expanded network and visibility: the involvement of external stakeholders such as Fundacja Porta broadened each organisation's professional network and increased their visibility within the European youth work community.
- Reusable educational resources: the pedagogical materials, workshop formats, and project templates developed for the exchange constitute a lasting resource that partner organisations can adapt and reuse in future local and international activities.
- Evidence for future projects: the documentation gathered (questionnaires, attendance records, creative outputs, evaluation data) provides valuable evidence to support future Erasmus+ applications and demonstrate impact to stakeholders and funders.
